How you'll know your ad image or video thumbnail contains too much text

Use our tool to check the amount of text in your images

Click here to use our tool to determine if your ad may reach fewer people for having too much text on the ad image. While the accuracy of the tool may not be perfect, you should use the tool as a guide to help you create and submit ads that are more likely to comply with our image text guidelines. The tool doesn't evaluate stock images.

IMAGE AD TXT ISSUE

Examples of image text that might not be approved:

Text-based logos - Any logo that is primarily text is counted as text regardless of its size or alignment

Watermark - Watermarks are considered as text, even if they're mandatory or as per their brand guidelines

Numbers - All numbers are considered as text

Image Text: Medium

Your ad's reach may be much lower

You may reach fewer people because there's too much text in the ad image. Ad images with little or no text are preferred. Try an image with less text, a smaller font size or without text-based logos.

Image Text: High

Your ad may not run

You may not reach your audience because there's too much text in the ad image. Ad images with little or no text are preferred. Unless you qualify for an exception, try an image with less text, a smaller font size or without text-based logos.

Hi, I tried to run some MaxBounty promotion direct-linking on FB ads and they just blocked the link I tried to use and sent me a warning that they think it is malicious....

Facebook doesn't like when you take people away from their website, especially if its to an affiliate offer.

There are some companies that have formed as a result of this, called Link Cloaks. They make your life easier when trying to affiliate market.

You can either:

LINK CLOAKS

There's a lot of Link Cloaks & link trackers out there but not all of them are whitelisted for FB.

Here are some that I know work because I have used them personally.

The logo for clickmagick, featuring the word "click" in black and "magick" in green with three small stars above the "i".

- Advanced Retargeting
- A/B Split-Testing with auto Winner Alerts
- Tracking pages you don't own

The logo for AdsBridge, featuring a blue bridge icon and the text "AdsBridge" in blue and black.

- Unlimited custom domains
- Ready to use templates
- Affiliate Network Offers
- Not a lot of tutorials to set it up 😞

The logo for VOLUUM, featuring a purple geometric icon and the word "VOLUUM" in white capital letters.

BUILD A SITE

Pros:

- Can serve as middleman between affiliate links and advertising platforms like FB
- There are *free options, but they don't look trustworthy to users or FB and can cause your ad reach to lower

Cons:

- Takes time
- Need one for every niche
- Need to buy domain names and hosting, (if you plan on getting organic SEO traffic) which costs $
- Can scare off users if you aren't good at design, they'll think it's a spam site and immediately click off.

36 Reasons Why Having a “Free Website” is a Bad Idea

1. Extremely slow websites

Most free website hosting providers put hundreds of websites sharing the same server. This makes all their websites load at very low speeds. Slow websites create bad user experience and are bad for SEO.

The Problem With Free Website Makers

20. Low credibility among your users

When your site is hosted on a free service, your users will feel less inclined to trust it. If users are not comfortable sharing their 23. You can't run advertisements or make money whole purpose of you creating a website.

OTHER ISSUES

Make sure you aren't doing any of these things:

- Image Is Imitating a Video
- Using Another Company's Trademarks
- Image Is Sexually Suggestive
- Referencing People's Demographics Directly, (Example: "Meet other Mexican 30 yr olds in Dallas")
- Violating Age Targeting Rules
